New England Mutual Life Ins.,
Of Boston, Mass., Chartered in 1843,
Capital and accumulation, $650,000.
THIS Company is one of the oldest, and among the most prudently and successfully conducted in the country. The primary object in conducting its business has been to provide perfect security under all conceivable circumstances, for the payment of its losses under its policies, and to return to the insured the surplus at stated periods, and strict economy is observed.

Every insured person is a member of the company and shares in the profits of the business, and is subject to no liability or assessments beyond his premium. The directors are required to be peculiarly interested in the company, and they give it their personal attention; and bonds of sufficient security are given by its officers for the faithful performance of their duties. Insurance may be effected for the benefit of the wife, which is secured to her by law beyond the reach of a husband's creditors; and creditors may insure the lives of debtors.

CHAS. C. CULVER, Agent for the Northwest. 29

Highly Important to Farmers.
THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.
LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon
Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds, (belonging to farmers,) household furniture, grain in barns, live stock, &c., from one to five years, at lower rates than most other responsible companies. All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than any other, consequently you will have no losses only your own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.
Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores, taverns, mills, shops and such like property. In this company all such property is rejected positively, by letting them alone.

Farmers, look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.
We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premium notes, and for the last fourteen months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

The best of references given as to the responsibility of the company.

A STORE FOR SALE OR TO LET.
THE STORE and a Lot of ground known as Lot No. 8, on Block No. 1, in the village and township of FULTON, Rock County, on the Catfish, near its confluence with Rock river, 11 miles northwest of Janesville.
The building is well calculated for a country store, being 23 feet front by 52 feet deep, and finished off above into convenient apartments either for a family or for offices, all in good condition.
The whole has been occupied for three years past by Messrs. T. E. and F. G. Green, as a store and dwelling, and being situated immediately opposite the Gristmill, is considered the best location for business in the village. The lot is two rods front by about seven rods deep.
This property will be sold or let on reasonable terms, and possession given immediately. For particulars enquire of
LEVI ALDEN, Janesville. 43

TO BUILDERS.
Materials Furnished.
THE SUBSCRIBER is now prepared to furnish BUILDING MATERIALS in any quantity, and CHEAPER than can be sold anywhere else in this vicinity. Working one of the very best quarries in the State, and possessing superior facilities for getting Out and Dressing Stone, manufacturing his own Quick Lime, and having put in perfect operation his Mill for the manufacture of Water Lime, he can offer superior materials to builders for the purchase of these articles. His Water Lime,
Has been fully tested, and found to be of an excellent quality, and he is now prepared to WARRANT it in all cases, and offer it at a price making it an object to buy. In furnishing Building Stone,
It is not too much to say he is in advance of all competitors. In his operations, and has spared no expense in any quantity, or of any size, and cheaper than can be found elsewhere.
Always on hand, and orders can be filled at all times, and to any extent.
The subscriber has now invested a large amount of Capital in his operations, and has spared no expense in perfecting his works, and will give careful attention to the preparation of his materials. His location and the convenience of easy access to his Mill and Quarry, together with the superior character of his Materials, induces him to believe that he can give satisfaction to all who call upon him.

New England Mutual Life Ins.,

Of Boston, Mass., Chartered in 1843.

Capital and accumulation, $650,000.

THIS Company is one of the oldest, and among the most prudently and successfully conducted in the country. The primary object in conducting its business has been to provide perfect security under all conceivable circumstances, for the payment of its losses under its policies, and to return to the insured a surplus at stated periods, and strict economy is observed.

Every insured person is a member of the company and shares in the profits of the business, and is subject to no liability or assessments beyond his premium.

The directors are required to be pecuniarily interested in the company, and they give it their personal attention; and bonds of sufficient security are given by its officers for the faithful performance of their duties.

Insurance may be effected for the benefit of the wife, which is secured to her by law beyond the reach of a husband's creditors; and creditors may insure the lives of debtors.

WILLIAM PHILLIPS, President; R. P. STEVENS, Secy.; O. P. ROBINSON, Examining Physician.

C. CHENEY, Agent for the Northwest.

Highly Important to Farmers.

THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

THE MADISON MUTUAL, LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds (belonging to farmers), household furniture, grain in barns, live stock, &c., from one to five years at lower rates than most other responsible companies.

All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than any other, consequently you will have no losses only your own of the same class, and all will be on an equal ground.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores, taverns, mills, shops and such like property. In this company all such property is rejected positively, by LETTER THIS AGENT.

Farmers, look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premiums on notes, and for the last fourteen months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

The best of references given as to the responsibility of the company.

THE ARTIST'S TRIUMPH.

A TALE OF LONDON.

BY HORATIO ALGER, JR.

Solomon Gagin, a Jew, who fully sustained the reputation of his race, as an avaricious man wholly devoted to the love of gain, stood with a cringing expression on his drawn up features behind the counter of his shop in David's alley. He was trafficking, or rather seemed to have just closed a sale with a young gentleman, well dressed, and of prepossessing manners. The latter made way politely for Mary, who was too much pre-occupied to acknowledge his courtesy.

"How much will you advance me on this?" asked she hurriedly, extending the chain which had originally been purchased for ten dollars.

Solomon looked in her face cunningly, as if to estimate by the degree of anxiety she displayed, how little he might venture to offer.

Mary was very nervous, and exceedingly anxious to reach home before it grew much darker. This probably gave her an appearance of solicitude, which the Jew attributed to destitution.

"These things are very cheap," he at length replied, "dog cheap; people don't want 'em. I can't offer you more than two dollars, and shall lose on that."

The young gentleman had been an attentive spectator of this scene. He fathomed the cunning of the Jew, and advancing to the counter, took the chain in his hands.

"Come Solomon, this is too bad. You should offer three times as much, and you would make a good bargain then. You know as well as I do that that chain never cost less than ten dollars. Come, come, be honest for once."

"It is all very well," said Solomon, who did not relish the interruption, "for young shentleman to talk, but if young shentleman should keep a pawnbroker's shop he would change his mind."

"Perhaps so, but I will wait till I am a pawnbroker first. But, Solomon, if you don't offer more, I will take it myself."

The Jew, who was afraid of losing a good bargain, and internally cursing the interference of the young gentleman, began to mumble that it was hard to press a poor man so—that he should certainly lose on it. However he closed by offering three dollars.

Mrs. Elliot was about to close with this offer, but the other stepped forward and said:

"No, no, this will never do. That chain cost ten dollars at least. I am sure of it. Give it to me madam," said he respectfully to Mrs. Elliot, "and I will advance you that sum."

The artist's wife accepted his proffer with grateful astonishment, and hastened to leave the shop. She had gone but a few steps when she was overtaken by the chance companion whom she had met at the pawnbroker's.

"Do not think me bold," said he, "if I suggest that it is not safe to carry money open in your hand, and indeed it is so dark that it is hardly safe at all for a lady to pass through the streets unattended. If you will accept my escort, I shall be most happy to conduct you to your lodgings."

Mrs. Elliot hesitated. She knew it was hardly safe to trust to an entire stranger, but his whole address had so prepossessed him in her favor, that she thought it hardly prudent to refuse.

"Sir," she replied, after a moment's hesitation, "I do not know whether I am in the right, but I cannot help trusting you."

"You shall not regret your confidence," said her companion. "May I ask where you reside?"

"At 16 S— street," was the reply of Mrs. Elliot. "I am much indebted to you, sir, no less for the trouble you are now taking, than for the generosity with which you saved me from being imposed upon by the Jew."

"Oh," said the other laughing, "Solomon is a cunning old fellow, who will cheat where he gets a chance. No worse Jew for that, or pawnbroker either. It is their business to cheat, and I fancy Gagin is as much of an adept at it as any one."

"I hope," he continued after a pause, "that you were not driven by distress to the sale of an article doubtless you value highly."

"It was presented to me by my husband," was the reply; "I would not have parted with it but that this was the only means probably of saving ourselves from being turned out of doors."

"I am sorry for that," was the sympathizing reply. "Does your husband know that you have come out on such an errand?"

"No, or he would have offered to pawn some of his clothing first. Of this I was afraid, and it is for this reason that I stole secretly out."

They had now reached the outer door of the dwelling in the upper part of which Mrs. Elliot lodged. It was necessary for them to part.

In parting the stranger pressed Mrs. Elliot's hand, and then walked rapidly away. She found to her astonishment that he had placed the chain in her hand. But he was now so far distant that she could not call him back.

Thanking him in her heart for this unlooked-for generosity, Mrs. Elliot went up stairs with a light heart, for she foresaw that with the sum of money she had so providentially come into possession, they would be able to live comfortably for some weeks, in addition to what she would have in her power to procure some delicacies for her husband's palate.

After a little consideration she decided not to mention her adventure to her husband, as the idea of her selling his gift would be painful to him, and would do him no good. There was no danger of his inquiring, so much as he absorbed in his painting. Besides, if he thought at all upon the subject, he would think that she had been put on business connected with her work.

She hastily passed up stairs, and set about preparing supper for herself and husband.

CHAPTER III.

The sun was not more punctual to this hour of rising, than was the visit of Mr. Mudge, the landlord to the lodging of the artist.

"Wall," said he abruptly, "have you got the rent ready? I can't wait a day longer."

"Nor will you be obliged," said Mrs. Elliot calmly. "Here is the money."

Mr. Mudge, notwithstanding his love of money looked a little disappointed at this ready payment. His mind was essentially a vulgar one, and he felt an instinctive aversion to Mrs. Elliot, whose superiority to himself he could not help admitting. He had hoped to have the pleasure of turning them out.

"Well, they won't always have the money ready," was his internal reflection, "and the first good excuse I have, they shall go, bag and baggage."

Meanwhile Mr. Elliot was making progress on his painting.

"You deserve the prize, Arthur," said his wife, after gazing admiringly upon her husband's work "you deserve it, and I hope that you will be successful in getting it."

"It has cost me many hours of hard labor," said the artist wearily, as he laid aside his palette a moment, and passed his hand across his brow; "I never felt so great an interest in a picture before. And now two days' labor, I think, will complete it. It needs but a few touches."

As he spoke, Mary saw an unnatural flush upon his cheek, and that his eye glowed with unusual brilliancy. She was alarmed.

"Do, Arthur, for my sake, lie down and rest awhile. You do not look well, and sleep will refresh you. You say two days will finish it, and you have a week before you."

"I believe I will lie down for a few minutes," said Arthur, "for my head aches strangely, and I feel weary."

He laid down, but it did not refresh him. In a little while he grew feverish, so that he could not leave his bed. His wife went out to summon a physician. All her hopes centered in Arthur, and the thought that he was sick—that he was in danger, quickened her step. She saw nothing that was going on around her, so intent was she on her object, when some one touched her familiarly on the shoulder.

She looked around and saw by her side the companion whom she had encountered at the pawnbroker's.

"I am happy to meet you once more," said he "but you seem in haste."

"Yes," said she hurriedly, "my husband has been suddenly taken sick, and I am in pursuit of a physician."

"Let me relieve you of that duty. If you will return to your husband, who doubtless needs your presence, I will summon a physician. I know your lodgings, and will return with medical assistance immediately."

Mrs. Elliot gratefully assented to this proffer of service, for she had felt much solicitude. When she returned, she found her husband seized with a fit of delirium, in which he uttered incoherent sentences, all of which had some connection with his picture and the approaching exhibition.

In a few minutes the stranger came with a physician. To the anxious enquiries of Mrs. Elliot, the doctor replied:

"Your husband is suffering from the excitement and fatigue consequent upon too severe mental exertion. This has thrown him into a fever, from which it will take time to recover."

After leaving directions, he withdrew, promising to repeat his visit the next day.

"How much my poor husband will be disappointed," Mrs. Elliot could not help exclaiming; "he must now abandon the hope of presenting his picture at the exhibition."

"What!" said her visitor with interest, "is your husband an artist?"

In reply, Mrs. Elliot led him to a corner of the room, and withdrew the screen that concealed the painting.

He gazed upon it with deep admiration for some moments, and then said with enthusiasm:

"Ah! this is indeed beautiful."

"It is all but completed," said the artist's wife, "but that will be of no service to us now," and she let the screen fall, and sighed heavily.

A sudden idea struck the visitor.

"Will you trust the painting to me for a few days?" he asked. "You shall not regret it."

Mrs. Elliot, convinced that her husband would not recover to finish it, assented without difficulty. She never thought of distrusting one who had been of such essential service.

"Thank you," said the visitor. "As you have reposed this confidence in me, I must acquaint you with my name and address, that you may know who you have trusted."

He handed her a card inscribed with the name "F. Soley, 7 Convent place."

"I will send for it this afternoon," said he, as he withdrew, "and will call in upon you to-day or to-morrow. I shall be anxious to learn how your husband is getting along."

SEASONABLE ADVICE BY AN IRISH EDITOR.—The editor of the Irish American, published in New York, is a Romanist of talent, and much more fairness than any of his sectarian contemporaries. In his paper for the past week he publishes an address to his fellow citizens of Irish birth, in which true American principles are inculcated. He tells them to think in politics as Americans and not as Irishmen, to avoid quarrels at the polls, and tell whiskey alone. The following extract contains excellent advice, and is the re-echo of what we have oftentimes addressed to our adopted citizens:

"Why, you have no more right to vote as a Catholic or Irishman in the choice of American law-makers, whether federal, state, municipal or judicial, than you have to plunder your neighbor's property. American interests should guide you. The honor, and glory, and prosperity of the federal republic, the interests of the state, the purity and health of the social relations with which you are associated and identified, should alone guide you in the exercise of your franchise. The constitution knows no state religion, acknowledges no sectarian interference in governmental affairs, cuts off clearly and totally all and every connection between the ruling power and any and every church, and leaves conscience untrampled in the exercise of political right."

By and through the constitution the voting privilege is extended to you; and by perverting that privilege to any personal or religious purpose, you not only violate your oath of citizenship, but you give a valid excuse to your persecutors to advocate the re-enactment of the alien and sedition laws, and thus deprive you of the privilege, advantage and honor of forming a component part of the great American Union."

And let me add that those who appeal to and traffic in your religious sympathies and convictions, and who constantly refer in their writings and speeches to your position and influence as 'Catholics,' and solicit you to take your 'Catholic' interest into account in exercising your right to approach the ballot-box, are your bitterest and most malignant enemies, and before God they have a serious responsibility in thus misleading you, which they in the latter end will find it difficult to satisfy and discharge."

WISCONSIN.—The tone of the political feeling in western Wisconsin, as far as we can judge, is of the most encouraging kind to our friends.

There is no legitimate Nebraska slave-feeling there, but what there is has been manufactured to order for the administration, which is strangely determined, that the people shall swallow the nauseous stuff, if it is possible to make them.

Eastman, in the second district, was sacrificed, because he would not take the villainous compound, and Dr. Hoyt was nominated in his stead because he would, though the liquor of the democratic members of the New Hampshire legislature, which they sweetened with guano, must have been palatable in comparison. The election takes place on the 7th of November, when it will be seen who are in favor of breaking faith and of allowing slavery to extend itself over a vast extent of country which has been declared sacred to freedom, and who are not.

The truth is, a few men in the United States, of which Douglas is chief, have got the notion into their heads, that they own the people of this country, in nearly the same sense that the Emperor of all the Russias owns all the Russias, and that if the said few men "bow the pregnant hinges of the knee" to any scurrilous act, the said people whom they own must do likewise. Another fact is, the people will do no such a thing, though here and there one may be found who will do so. And this will be found to be the case in Wisconsin, as well as in Illinois.—Galena Gazette.

ROCK COUNTY REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The electors of Rock county who are determined to support no man for office who is not positively and fully committed to the support of the principles announced in the "Republican Platform" adopted at Madison on the 13th of July last, and whose personal character, political associations and private conduct, do not afford a guarantee that he is reliable, are invited to meet in their respective townships or wards at the place of holding the last township or ward election, on Tuesday, 10th day of October next, at 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of effecting a thorough organization of the Republican party in their towns or wards, and of appointing delegates to a county convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY, the 12th day of October next, at 2 o'clock P. M., to nominate a county ticket.

The towns and wards will be entitled to representation in the county convention as follows:—to wit:

17th SENATORIAL DISTRICT CONVENTION.

At the same time and place above designated in the respective towns and wards for meetings, to choose delegates to the county convention, the Republican electors of the wards of the city of Janesville, and of the towns in this county comprised in the 17th senatorial district, are requested to select an equal number of delegates to which they are entitled under the above appointment in the county convention, to represent them in a senatorial convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY the 12th day of October next at 11 o'clock, A. M., to nominate a candidate for senator.

By order of the County Committee.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATION IN THE THIRD DISTRICT.—Charles Billingshurst, Esq., of Dodge county, editor of the Juneau Burr Oak, was nominated for congress, by the republican convention for the third district, which met at Wau-pun last Wednesday. Mr. B. was a member of the "late" democratic party, and in 1852, was one of the presidential electors chosen by that party in this state; but he was among the first to protest against the Nebraska inquiry, on its announcement in congress, and did not falter in his opposition to it when some of the democratic organs authoritatively pronounced it a party test. He was pretty severely denounced at the time, by some of his contemporaries in this state, but his sense of the injustice and wrong of that act far outweighed their threats and menaces, and like his predecessors already upon the republican congressional ticket in this state, he stands fairly, squarely, and firmly upon the republican platform. He is a man of good ability, of unquestioned integrity and is firm and unwavering in principle.

The republican ticket for congress is now complete, and the Milwaukee Sentinel well observes that, "even the most prejudiced opponent must concede that it is a good one. It is significant, too, of the character and strength of the republican movement in this state, and a good omen of its success, that a free soiler is our candidate in this district, a whig in the second and a democrat in the third. We hope to chronicle and rejoice over the success of all three."

We place this ticket at the head of our columns with pleasure, and cannot but believe that the fitness of the selection, the extraordinary unanimity in their choice, and the general confidence in and good feeling towards them by the people are true auguries of their triumphant success.

BIENNIAL SESSIONS OF THE LEGISLATURE.—The Janesville Gazette avows itself in favor of the amendments to our state constitution. That makes two papers on that side of the question. "Room for the mourners?"—Appleton Crescent.

The "biennial session" system has been tried in several states, and found to work badly. The consequence has uniformly been that extra sessions of the legislature have to be called. This is particularly true of new states, where the population is constantly changing, new counties being erected, and local legislation being required for them. It would seem to be the part of wisdom for the people of this state to avail themselves of the experience of Ohio and other western states, where the system has been adopted, and the people are heartily sick of it.—Mil. News.

We admit that the practice in several western states under the biennial system has been bad, because the object in view has been thwarted by pliant governors who were ready to lend a willing ear to railroad schemers and the horde of hangers on who profit in various ways by a legislative session. Yet that constitutes no more a legitimate objection to an attempt at reform than a liability to abuse in any other matter.

With annual sessions we are certain of a yearly infliction of all the evils of a mass of undigested, unnecessary, and we are fortunate if we escape corrupt legislation. With biennial sessions, there is a chance that we may be spared a little; but if we gain nothing we certainly lose nothing. No one pretends that three-quarters of the laws passed since the first session of our state legislature are of the least earthly necessity, or many of them of the least possible utility, while a very large share are positively injurious. The expense of a legislative session, moreover, is no inconsiderable item, and if half the taxes from that source can be saved, it is well worth trying for.

The argument against the proposed amendments to the constitution is founded upon the assumed dishonesty of the governor in calling a special session, or the cupidity of the legislature in adjourning from one year to another, instead of doing up their business as the constitution, should it be changed, would require, and adjourning sine die as the people would dictate.

There is no sense or reason in the arguments of the abolitionists or sham republicans. They are continually harping upon the Nebraska-Kansas bill, and charging that its effect will be to extend the area of slave territory and increase the slave power; and in the same breath these very same writers assert that these territories are now being populated entirely by freemen from the northern states—that there are already in Nebraska and Kansas over ten thousand of these men from the north—and that there is no possibility of either of these territories ever becoming slave states! Now, we would be glad to be informed how the organizing of these territories can increase the slave territory and power, when the climate, soil, and population are all antagonistic to slavery, and there is no earthly prospect of slavery existing there? If this is not duplicity and dishonesty of the bald-kind we do not understand the meaning of those words. And now is it possible that any democrat can be deceived by such a rope of sand? It appears to us impossible.—Sheboygan Journal.

We like to give occasional specimens of the argument as well as the decency of the Nebraska papers. We gave a day or two since a specimen of the latter from this same paper, and here present a choice bit of the former. What thanks to Douglas & Co., supposing northern men, should by superior energy and numbers forestall slavery in these territories? Will that diminish the crime of those who have done all they could to establish slavery there, namely, procured the repeal of an ordinance excluding that hateful institution therefrom? And if northern men should prevent them from accomplishing the diabolical scheme aimed at, is that a good reason why they should be entrusted again with power, or why those who uphold them should be put in a position to co-operate with them? The question divested of sophistry and misstatement like the above, is plain enough. The slave power has year after year been demanding concession from the free states, and has found no difficulty in obtaining it through the hands of the democratic party; the more they have obtained the more turbulent and exacting have they become, until they have succeeded in throwing off all barriers to the introduction of slavery upon formerly free territory. It is natural that such overreaching measures should react. But this by no possible logic or reason extenuates the guilt of those who undertook these measures for an entirely opposite result.

THE FALL TRAVEL.—Travel opens brisk this fall, and people seem disposed to make up for its suspension during the hot weather. Mr. Keeler, stage agent, informs us that over seventy passengers came in last Monday from Afton, and that the number arriving from and departing for that place by stage during the week was about six hundred. The number will be very largely increased upon that route when the boats stop running for the season.

We learn that the democratic convention to nominate a candidate for congress from the first district of this state, held its meeting at Rockford, and nominated by over a two-third vote, William M. Jackson, of McHenry county. Resolutions cordially approving the national administration, and of the principle of the Nebraska bill were adopted. We hope to be able to lay them before our readers in a day or two. The abolitionists will find it a difficult task to elect Washburn with such a competitor.—Chicago Times.

This is the announcement with which Douglas' paper in Chicago hails the split in its party at the Rockford convention, where a large portion of the delegates, representing the largest portion of the voters, withdrew, and nominated a candidate against Mr. Jackson. Mr. Washburn would have beaten the party united; distracted, the only question is as to his majority over Jackson and Perry, and Perry's majority over Jackson.

But this little paragraph of the Times is a standard to judge it in other matters. It is constantly reporting a triumphal progress of Douglas through the state, and representing a cordial endorsement of him by the people. Now if it will attempt to conceal so serious a trouble and so near home, as the split at Rockford, and predict the election of its candidate where every one knows he stands a better chance of being struck by lightning, what are its representations and predictions worth as to more distant parts of the state?

HON. S. P. CHASE, United States senator from Ohio, will address the people on the Nebraska question as follows:

Thursday, October 12th, at Chicago, in the evening.

Friday, " 13th, at Belvidere, Boone co.

Saturday, " 14th, at Aurora, Kane co.

Monday, " 16th, at Joliet, Will co.

LOOK OUT FOR COUNTERFEITS.—Ten dollar notes on the Bank of Racine, and on the Mercantile Bank, of Bangor, Maine, altered from ones, are in circulation in this vicinity. One of the rogues concerned in their manufacture, of the name of Whiting, was arrested on Monday last, and quite a number of ten dollar bills on the old bank of Mineral Point, containing the figures and words necessary to make the alterations, were found in his possession. He was discharged yesterday by order of the district attorney Roys for reasons which we have not been able to ascertain, and it is said left on the train this morning. It is presumed there are others concerned in the business. The alteration is very neatly executed but can be readily discovered on holding the bill up to the light.

MUSICAL CONVENTION AND FESTIVAL.

The "Janesville Musical Society" has engaged Prof. William B. Bradbury, of New York, the distinguished composer and teacher of music, to conduct a musical convention and festival to be held in this city, commencing on Monday, the 23d of October next, at 9 o'clock A. M., continuing three days and evenings, and concluding on Wednesday evening, October 25th, with a public concert.

Its design is the advancement of singers in musical knowledge, by the study and practice of church, concert, and secular music, combined with familiar lectures and criticisms.

The principal text-books used will be "The Shawn," and "The Metropolitan Glee Book."

Members of the convention from abroad will be entertained as guests of the "Janesville Musical Society," and upon their arrival will please present themselves to either of the reception committee, viz: John R. Beale, Sam'l A. Martin, John E. Babcock.

Terms of admission to the entire course for Gentlemen, $2 00

General Election Notice.

STATE OF WISCONSIN.
SHERIFF'S OFFICE.
Janesville, July 18, 1854.

NOTICE is hereby given that at the next general election to be held in the State of Wisconsin, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday in November, to wit, the seventh day of said month, the following officers are to be elected:

A Representative in Congress for the second Congressional District, comprising the counties of Adams, Bad Ax, Buffalo, Chippewa, Clark, Crawford, Dane, Dodge, Grant, Green, Iowa, Jackson, Jefferson, Johnson, Kauai, Lincoln, Manitowish, Marquette, Monroe, Pierce, Polk, Portage, Richland, Rock, St. Croix, Sauk, and Trempealeau, in the place of Ben C. Eastman, whose term of office will expire on the fourth day of March next.

A State Senator for the seventeenth Senate District, comprising the towns of Avon, Centre, Fulton, Janesville, Magnolia, Newark, Plymouth, Porter, Rock, Spring Valley, and Union, in the county of Rock, in the place of Ezra Miller, whose term of office will expire on the first Monday of January next.

Members of assembly for the several Assembly Districts in said county, and the following County Officers, to wit:

Sheriff, Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Clerk of the Circuit Court, District Attorney, County Treasurer, Register of Deeds, County Surveyor and Coroner.

Any elector for or against any or all of said officers, or the election of the state are to be submitted to the people at such election, to wit:

Amend Section 4 of Article 4, as to read as follows: The members of assembly shall be chosen biennially, by single districts, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday of November, by the qualified electors of the several districts; such districts to be bounded by county, precincts, town or ward lines, to consist of contiguous territory, and to be in as compact a form as practicable.

Amend last clause of Section 5 of same Article, as to read as follows: "The senate districts shall be numbered in regular series. The senators chosen by the present odd numbered districts, in the year 1854, shall hold office for one year, and the senators chosen by the even numbered districts, in the year 1855, shall hold office until the last day of December, 1856. Thereafter senators shall be chosen by the term of years, but the legislature at the next apportionment shall so classify the senators to be elected from any additional senate district, which may be formed, that the term of office of all senators elected from even numbered districts, shall expire at the same time, and the term of office of all those elected from odd numbered districts shall expire at the same time.

New England Mutual Life Ins.,
Of Boston, Mass., Chartered in 1843.

Capital and accumulation, $650,000.
THIS Company is one of the oldest, and among the most prudently and successfully conducted in the country. The primary object in conducting its business has been to provide perfect security under all conceivable circumstances, for the payment of its losses under its policies, and to return to the insured the surplus at stated periods, and strict economy is observed.

Every insured person is a member of the company and shares in the profits of the business, and is subject to no disability or assessment beyond his premium.

The directors are required to be peculiarly interested in the company, and they give it their personal attention; and bonds of sufficient security are given by its officers for the faithful performance of their duties. Insurance may be effected for the benefit of the wife, which is secured to her by law beyond the reach of a husband's creditors; and creditors may insure the lives of debtors.

CHAS. C. CHESNEY,
Agent for the Northwest.

Highly Important to Farmers.
THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

THE MADISON MUTUAL,
LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds, including barns, and the contents thereof, in barns, live stock, &c., from one to five years, at lower rates than most other responsible companies. All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than when other, consequently you will have no losses in the hands of a third party, and all will be on an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores, taverns, and dwelling houses, and the loss of such property all such property is rejected positively, by letting them alone.

Farmers, look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premium notes, and for the last fourteen months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

Solomon Gagin, a Jew, who fully sustained the reputation of his race, as an avaricious man wholly devoted to the love of gain, stood with a grinning expression on his drawn up features behind the counter of his shop in David's alley. He was trafficking, or rather seemed to have just closed a sale with a young gentleman, well dressed, and of prepossessing manners. The latter made way politely for Mary, who was too much pre-occupied to acknowledge his courtesy.

"How much will you advance me on this?" asked he hurriedly, extending the chain which had originally been purchased for ten dollars.

Solomon looked in her face cunningly, as if to estimate by the degree of anxiety she displayed, how little he might venture to offer.

Mary was very nervous, and exceedingly anxious to reach home before it grew much darker. This probably gave her an appearance of solicitude, which the Jew attributed to destitution.

"These things are very cheap," he at length replied, "dog cheap; people don't want 'em. I can't offer you more than two dollars, and shall lose on that."

The young gentleman had been an attentive spectator of this scene. He fathomed the cunning of the Jew, and advancing to the counter, took the chain in his hands.

Come Solomon, this is too bad. You should offer three times as much, and you would make a good bargain then. You know as well as I do that that chain never cost less than ten dollars. Come, come, be honest for once."

"It is all very well," said Solomon, who did not relish the interruption, "for young shentleman to talk, but if young shentleman should keep a pawnbroker's shop he would change his mind."

"Perhaps so, but I will wait till I am a pawnbroker first. But, Solomon, if you don't offer more, I will take it myself."

The Jew, who was afraid of losing a good bargain, and internally cursing the interference of the young gentlemen, began to mumble that it was hard to press a poor man so—that he should certainly lose on it. However he closed by offering three dollars.

Mrs. Elliot was about to close with this offer, but the other stepped forward and said, "No, no, this will never do. That chain cost ten dollars at least. I am sure of it, for I bought one precisely similar the other day. Give it to me madam," said he respectfully to Mrs. Elliot, "and I will advance you that sum."

The artist's wife accepted his proffer with grateful astonishment, and hastened to leave the shop. She had gone but a few steps when she was overtaken by the chance companion whom she had met at the pawnbroker's.

"Do not think me bold," said he, "if I suggest that it is not safe to carry money open in your hand, and indeed it is so dark that it is hardly safe at all for a lady to pass through the streets unattended. If you will accept my escort, I shall be most happy to conduct you to your lodgings."

Mrs. Elliot hesitated. She knew it was hardly safe to trust to an entire stranger, but the young stranger's conduct thus far and his whole address had so prepossessed him in her favor, that she thought it hardly prudent to refuse.

"Sir," she replied, after a moment's hesitation, "I do not know whether I am in the right, but I cannot help trusting you."

"You shall not regret your confidence," said her companion. "May I ask where you reside?"

"At 16 S— street," was the reply of Mrs. Elliot. "I am much indebted to you, sir, no less for the trouble you are now taking, than for the generosity with which you saved me from being imposed upon by the Jew."

"Oh," said the other laughing, "Solomon is a cunning old fellow, who will cheat where he gets a chance. No worse Jew for that, or pawnbroker either. It is their business to cheat, and I fancy Gagin is as much of an adept at it as any one."

"I hope," he continued after a pause, "that you were not driven by distress to the sale of an article doubtless you value highly."

"It was presented to me by my husband," was the reply; "I would not have parted with it but that this was the only means probably of saving ourselves from being turned out of doors."

"I am sorry for that," was the sympathizing reply. "Does your husband know that you have come out on such an errand?"

"No, or he would have offered to pawn some of his clothing first. Of this I was afraid, and it is for this reason that I stole secretly out."

They had now reached the outer door of the dwelling in the upper part of which Mr. Elliot lodged. It was necessary for them to part.

In parting the stranger pressed Mrs. Elliot's hand, and then walked rapidly away. She found to her astonishment that he had placed the chain in her hand. But he was now so far distant that she could not call him back.

"Thanking him in her heart for this unlooked-for generosity, Mrs. Elliot went up stairs with a light heart, for she foresaw that with the sum of money she had so providentially come into possession, they would be able to live comfortably for some weeks, in addition to which she would have it in her power to procure some delicacies for her husband's palate."

After a little consideration she decided not to mention her adventure to her husband, as the idea of her selling his gift would be painful to him, and would do him no good. There was no danger of his inquiring, so much was he absorbed in his painting. Besides, if he thought at all upon the subject, he would think that she had been put on business connected with her work.

She hastily passed up stairs, and sat about preparing supper for herself and husband.

CHAPTER III.

The sun was not more punctual to this hour of rising, than was the visit of Mr. Mudge, the landlord to the lodging of the artist.

"Wall," said he abruptly, "have you got the rent ready? I can't wait a day longer."

"Nor will you be obliged," said Mrs. Elliot calmly. "Here is the money."

Mr. Mudge, notwithstanding his love of money looked a little disappointed at this ready payment. His mind was essentially a vulgar one, and he felt an instinctive aversion to Mrs. Elliot, whose superiority to himself he could not help admitting. He had hoped to have the pleasure of turning them out.

"Well, they will always have the money ready," was his internal reflection, "and the first good excuse I have, they shall go, bag and baggage."

Meanwhile Mr. Elliot was making progress on his painting.

"You deserve the prize, Arthur," said his wife, after gazing admiringly upon her husband's work "you deserve it, and I hope that you will be successful in getting it."

"It has cost me many hours of hard labor," said the artist wearily, as he laid aside his palette moment, and passed his hand across his brow; "I never felt so great an interest in a picture before. And now two days' labor, I think, will complete it. It needs but a few touches."

As he spoke, Mary saw an unnatural flush upon his cheek, and that his eye glowed with unusual brilliancy. She was alarmed.

"Do, Arthur, for my sake, lie down and rest awhile. You do not look well, and sleep will refresh you. You say two days will finish it, and you have a week before you."

"I believe I will lie down for a few minutes," said Arthur, "for my head aches strangely, and I feel weary."

He laid down, but it did not refresh him. In a little while he grew feverish, so that he could not leave his bed. His wife went out to summon a physician. All her hopes centered in Arthur, and the thought that he was sick—that he was in danger, quickened her step. She saw nothing that was going on around her, so intent was she on her object, when some one touched her familiarly on the shoulder. She looked around and saw by her side the companion whom she had encountered at the pawnbroker's.

"I am happy to meet you once more," said he "but you seem in haste."

"Yes," said she hurriedly, "my husband has been suddenly taken sick, and I am in pursuit of a physician."

"Let me relieve you of that duty. If you will return to your husband, who doubtless needs your presence, I will summon a physician. I know your lodgings, and will return with medical assistance immediately."

Mrs. Elliot gratefully assented to this proffer of service, for she had felt much solicitude. When she returned, she found her husband seized with a fit of delirium, in which he uttered incoherent sentences, all of which had some connection with his picture and the approaching exhibition.

In a few minutes the stranger came with a physician. To the anxious enquiries of Mrs. Elliot, the doctor replied:

"Your husband is suffering from the excitement and fatigue consequent upon too severe mental exertion. This has thrown him into a fever, from which it will take time to recover."

After leaving directions, he withdrew, promising to repeat his visit the next day.

"How much my poor husband will be disappointed," Mrs. Elliot could not help exclaiming; "he must now abandon the hope of presenting his picture at the exhibition."

"What!" said her visitor with interest, "is your husband an artist?"

In reply, Mrs. Elliot led him to a corner of the room, and withdrew the screen that concealed the painting.

He gazed upon it with deep admiration for some moments, and then said with enthusiasm, "Ah! this is indeed beautiful."

"It is all but completed," said the artist's wife, "but that will be of no service to us now," and she let the screen fall, and sighed heavily.

A sudden idea struck the visitor.

"Will you trust the painting to me for a few days?" he asked. "You shall not regret it."

Mrs. Elliot, convinced that her husband would not recover to finish it, assented without difficulty. She never thought of distrusting one who had been of such essential service.

"Thank you," said the visitor. "As you have repaid this confidence in me, I must acquaint you with my name and address, that you may know who you have trusted."

He handed her a card inscribed with the name "F. Sedley, 7 Convent place."

"I will send for it this afternoon," said he, as he withdrew, "and will call in upon you to-day or to-morrow. I shall be anxious to learn how your husband is getting along."

SEASONABLE ADVICE BY AN IRISH EDITOR.—The editor of the Irish American, published in New York, is a Romanist of talent, and much more fairness than any of his sectarian contemporaries.

In his paper for the past week he publishes an address to his fellow citizens of Irish birth, in which true American principles are inculcated. He tells them to think in politics as Americans and not as Irishmen, to avoid quarrels at the polls, and let whiskey alone.

The following extract contains excellent advice, and is the re-echo of what we have oftentimes addressed to our adopted citizens:

"Why, you have no more right to vote as a Catholic or Irishman in the choice of American law-makers, whether federal, state, municipal or judicial, than you have to plunder your neighbor's property. American interests should guide you. The honor and glory, and prosperity of the federal republic, the interests of the state, the purity and health of the social relations with which you are associated and identified, should alone guide you in the exercise of your franchise. The constitution knows no state religion, acknowledges no sectarian interference in governmental affairs, cuts off clearly and totally all and every connection between the ruling power and any and every church, and leaves conscience untrammelled in the exercise of political right."

By and through the constitution the voting privilege is extended to you; and by perverting that privilege to any personal or religious purpose, you not only violate your oath of citizenship, but you give a valid excuse to your persecutors to advocate the re-creation of the alien and sedition laws, and thus deprive you of the privilege, advantage and honor of forming a component part of the great American Union.

And let me add that those who appeal to and trade in your religious sympathies and convictions, and who constantly refer in their writings and speeches to your position and influence as 'Catholics,' and solicit you to take your 'Catholic' interest into account in exercising your right to approach the ballot-box, are your bitterest and most malignant enemies; and before God they have a serious responsibility in thus misleading you, which they in the latter end will find it difficult to satisfy and discharge."

WISCONSIN.—The tone of the political feeling in western Wisconsin, as far as we can judge, is of the most encouraging kind to our friends.

There is no legitimate Nebraska slave-feling there, but what there is has been manufactured to order for the administration, which is strangely determined, that the people shall swallow the nauseous stuff, if it be possible to make them.

Eastman, in the second district, was sacrificed, because he would not take the villainous compound, and Dr. Hoyt was nominated in his stead because he would, though the liquor of the democratic members of the New Hampshire legislature, which they sweetened with guano, must have been palatable in comparison. The election takes place on the 7th of November, when it will be seen who are in favor of breaking faith and of allowing slavery to extend itself over a vast extent of country which has been declared sacred to freedom, and who are not.

The truth is, a few men in the United States, of which Douglas is chief, have got the notion into their heads, that they own the people of this country, in nearly the same sense that the Emperor of all the Russias owns all the Russians, and that if the said few men "bow the pregnant hinges of the knee" to any scoundrel act, the said people whom they own must do likewise. Another fact is, the people will do so, a thing, though here and there one may be found who will do so. And this will be found to be the case in Wisconsin, as well as in Illinois.—Galena Gazette.

ROCK COUNTY REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The electors of Rock county who are determined to support no man for office who is not positively and fully committed to the support of the principles announced in the "Republican Platform" adopted at Madison on the 13th of July last, and whose personal character, political associations and private conduct, do not afford a guarantee that he is reliable, are invited to meet in their respective townships or wards at the place of holding the last township or ward election, on Tuesday, 10th day of October next, at 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of electing a thorough organization of the Republican party in their townships or wards, and of appointing delegates to a county convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY, the 12th day of October next, at 2 o'clock P. M., to nominate a county ticket.

The towns and wards will be entitled to representation in the county convention as follows:—to wit:

17TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT CONVENTION.

At the same time and place above designated in the respective towns and wards for meetings, to choose delegates to the county convention, the Republican electors of the wards of the city of Janesville, and of the towns in this county comprised in the 17th senatorial district, are requested to select an equal number of delegates to which they are entitled under the above appointment in the county convention, to represent them in a senatorial convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY the 12th day of October next at 11 o'clock, A. M., to nominate a candidate for senator.

By order of the County Committee.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATION IN THE THIRD DISTRICT.—Charles Billingshurst, Esq., of Dodge county, editor of the Janesville Burr Oak, was nominated for congress, by the republican convention for the third district, which met at Wau-pun last Wednesday. Mr. B. was a member of the "late" democratic party, and in 1852, was one of the presidential electors chosen by that party in this state; but he was among the first to protest against the Nebraska iniquity, on its announcement in congress, and did not filter in his opposition to it when some of the democratic organs authoritatively pronounced it a party test. He was pretty severely denounced at the time, by some of his contemporaries in this state, but his sense of the injustice and wrong of that act far outweighed their threats and menaces, and like his predecessors already upon the republican congressional ticket in this state, he stands fairly, squarely, and firmly upon the republican platform. He is a man of good ability, of unquestioned integrity and is firm and unwavering in principle.

The republican ticket for congress is now complete, and the Milwaukee Sentinel well observes that, "even the most prejudiced opponent must concede that it is a good one. It is significant, too, of the character and strength of the republican movement in this state, and a good omen of its success, that a free soiler is our candidate in this district, a whig in the second and a democrat in the third. We hope to chronicle and rejoice over the success of all three."

We place this ticket at the head of our columns with pleasure, and cannot but believe that the fitness of the selection, the extraordinary unanimity in their choice, and the general confidence in and good feeling towards them by the people are true auguries of their triumphant success.

BIENNIAL SESSIONS OF THE LEGISLATURE.—The Janesville Gazette avows itself in favor of the amendments to our state constitution. That makes two papers on that side of the question. "Room for the mourners!"—Appleton Crescent.

The "biennial session" system has been tried in several states, and found to work badly. The consequence has uniformly been that extra sessions of the legislature have to be called. This is particularly true of new states, where the population is constantly changing, new counties being erected, and local legislation being required for them. It would seem to be the part of wisdom for the people of this state to avail themselves of the experience of Ohio and other western states, where the system has been adopted, and the people are heartily sick of it.—Mil. News.

We admit that the practice in several western states under the biennial system has been bad, because the object in view has been thwarted by plant growers who were ready to lend a willing ear to railroad schemers and the horde of hangers on who profit in various ways by a legislative session. Yet that constitutes no more a legitimate objection to an attempt at reform than a liability to abuse in any other matter.—With annual sessions we are certain of a yearly infliction of all the evils of a mass of undigested, unnecessary, and we are fortunate if we escape corrupt legislation. With biennial sessions, there is a chance that we may be spared a little; but if we gain nothing we certainly lose nothing. No one pretends that three-quarters of the laws passed since the first session of our state legislature are of the least earthly necessity, or many of them of the least possible utility, while a very large share are positively injurious. The expense of a legislative session, moreover, is no inconsiderable item, and if half the taxes from that source can be saved, it is well worth trying for.

The argument against the proposed amendments to the constitution is founded upon the assumed dishonesty of the governor in calling a special session, or the cupidity of the legislature in adjourning from one year to another, instead of doing up their business as the constitution, should it be changed, would require, and adjourning sine die as the people would dictate.

There is no sense or reason in the arguments of the abolitionists or sham republicans. They are continually harping upon the Nebraska-Kansas bill, and charging that its effect will be to extend the area of slave territory and increase the slave power; and in the same breath these very same writers assert that these territories are now being populated entirely by freemen from the northern states—that there are already in Nebraska and Kansas over ten thousand of these men from the north—and that there is no possibility of either of these territories ever becoming slave states! Now, we would be glad to be informed how the organizing of these territories can increase the slave territory and power, when the climate, soil, and population are all antagonistic to slavery, and there is no earthly prospect of slavery existing there? If this is not duplicity and dishonesty of the baldest kind we do not understand the meaning of those words. And now it is possible that any democrat can be deceived by such a rope of sand? It appears to us impossible.—Shirbogan Journal.

We like to give occasional specimens of the argument as well as the decency of the Nebraska papers. We gave a day or two since a specimen of the latter from this same paper, and here present a choice bit of the former. What thanks to Douglas & Co., supposing northern men, should by superior energy and numbers forestall slavery in these territories? Will that diminish the crime of those who have done all they could to establish slavery there, namely, procured the repeal of an ordinance excluding that hateful institution therefrom? And if northern men should prevent them from accomplishing the diabolical scheme aimed at, is that a good reason why they should be entrusted again with power, or why those who uphold them should be put in a position to co-operate with them? The question divested of sophistry and misstatement like the above, is plain enough. The slave power has year after year been demanding concession from the free states, and has found no difficulty in obtaining it thro' the hands of the democratic party; the more they have obtained the more turbulent and exacting have they become, until they have succeeded in throwing off all barriers to the introduction of slavery upon formerly free territory. It is natural that such overreaching measures should react. But this by no possible logic or reason extenuates the guilt of those who undertook these measures for an entirely opposite result.

THE FALL TRAVEL.—Travel opens brisk this fall, and people seem disposed to make up for its suspension during the hot weather. Mr. Keeler, stage agent, informs us that over seventy passengers came in last Monday from At-on, and that the number arriving from and departing for that place by stage during the week was about six hundred. This number will be very largely increased upon that route when the boats stop running for the season.

We learn that the democratic convention to nominate a candidate for congress from the first district of this state, held its meeting at Rockford, and nominated by over a two-third vote, William M. Jackson, of McHenry county. Resolutions cordially approving the national administration, and of the principle of the Nebraska bill were adopted. We hope to be able to lay them before our readers in a day or two. The abolitionists will find it a difficult task to elect Washburn with such a competitor.—Chicago Times.

This is the announcement with which Douglas' paper in Chicago hails the split in its party at the Rockford convention, where a large portion of the delegates, representing the largest portion of the voters, withdrew, and nominated a candidate against Mr. Jackson. Mr. Washburn would have beaten the party united; distracted, the only question is as to his majority over Jackson and Perry, and Perry's majority over Jackson.

But this little paragraph of the Times is a standard to judge it in other matters. It is constantly reporting a triumphal progress of Douglas through the state, and representing a cordial endorsement of him by the people. Now if it will attempt to conceal so serious a trouble and so near home, as the split at Rockford, and predict the election of its candidate where every one knows he stands a better chance of being struck by lightning, what are its representations and predictions worth as to more distant parts of the state?

HON. S. P. CHASE, United States senator from Ohio, will address the people on the Nebraska question as follows:

Thursday, " 13th, at Belvidere, Boone co.
Saturday, " 14th, at Aurora, Kane co.

LOOK OUT FOR COUNTERFEITS.—Ten dollar notes on the Bank of Racine, and on the Mercantile Bank, of Bangor, Maine, altered from ones, are in circulation in this vicinity. One of the rogues concerned in their manufacture, of the name of Whiting, was arrested on Monday last, and quite a number of ten dollar bills on the old bank of Mineral Point, containing the figures and words necessary to make the alterations, were found in his possession. He was discharged yesterday by order of the district attorney Roys for reasons which we have not been able to ascertain, and it is said left on the train this morning. It is presumed there are others concerned in the business. The alteration is very neatly executed but can be readily discovered on holding the bill up to the light.

General Election Notice.

STATE OF WISCONSIN.
FURNACE'S OFFICE.
Janesville, July 19, 1854.
NOTICE is hereby given that at the next general election to be held in the State of Wisconsin, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday in October, the following officers of said month, the following officers are to be elected:

A Representative in Congress for the second Congressional District, comprising the counties of Adams, Ashland, Buffalo, Dickinson, Clark, Crawford, Dane, De Kalb, Dunn, Grant, Green, Iowa, Jackson, La Crosse, La Fayette, La Point, Marathon, Monroe, Pierce, Polk, Portage, Richland, Rock, St. Croix, Sauk, and Trempealeau, in the place of Hon. C. Eastman, whose term of office will expire on the fourth day of March next.

A State Senator for the seventeenth Senate District, comprising the towns of Avon, Centre, Fulton, Janesville, Magnolia, Newark, Plymouth, Porter, Rock, Spring Valley, and Union, in the county of Rock, in the place of Ezra Miller, whose term of office will expire on the first Monday of January next.

Members of assembly for the several Assembly Districts, in said county, and the following County Officers, to wit:

Sherriff, Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Clerk of the Circuit Court, District Attorney, County Treasurer, Register of Deeds, County Surveyor and Coroner.

The following amendments to the constitution of the state are to be submitted to the people at such election, to wit:

Amendment Section 4 of Article 4, as to read as follows: The members of assembly shall be elected by single districts, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday of November, by the qualified electors of the several districts; such districts to be bounded by natural divisions, towns or wards, to consist of contiguous territory, and to be in no respect a form as practicable.

Amend last clause of Section 5 of same Article, as to read as follows: "The senate districts shall be numbered in regular series. The senators chosen by the present odd numbered districts, in the year 1854, shall hold their offices until the last day of December 1856. The senators chosen by the present even numbered districts, in the year 1854, shall hold their offices until the last day of December, 1855. The senators shall be chosen for the term of four years, but the legislature at any new apportionment, shall so classify the senators to be elected from any district, that the members of the senate shall be chosen by single districts, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday of November, by the qualified electors of the several districts; such districts to be bounded by natural divisions, towns or wards, to consist of contiguous territory, and to be in no respect a form as practicable."

Amend Section eleven as to read as follows: "The legislature shall meet at the seat of government once in two years, and not oftener, unless convened by the governor."

Each elector may vote for or against the first of the above named amendments by depositing a ballot containing the following words: "For amendment to section four," or "against amendment to section four," and for or against the second of the above named amendments by depositing a ballot containing the words, "For amendment to section five," or "against amendment to section five," and for or against the third of the above amendments by depositing a ballot containing the words, "For amendment to section eleven," or "against amendment to section eleven." The votes given by any elector for or against any or all of said amendments shall be on one ballot, and to be deposited in a separate box for the purpose. The qualification of the electors to be the same as in election for state officers.

THE ARTIST'S TRIUMPH.

A TALE OF LONDON.

BY HORATIO ALGER, JR.

Solomon Gagin, a Jew, who fully sustained the reputation of his race, as an avaricious man wholly devoted to the love of gain, stood with a cringing expression on his drawn up features behind the counter of his shop in David's alley. He was trafficking, or rather seemed to have just closed a sale with a young gentleman, well dressed, and of prepossessing manners. The latter made way politely for Mary, who was too much preoccupied to acknowledge his courtesy.

"How much will you advance me on this?" asked she hurriedly, extending the chain which had originally been purchased for ten dollars. Solomon looked in her face cunningly, as if to estimate by the degree of anxiety she displayed, how little he might venture to offer.

Mary was very nervous, and exceedingly anxious to reach home before it grew much darker. This probably gave her an appearance of solicitude, which the Jew attributed to distress.

"These things is very cheap," he at length replied, "dog cheap; people don't want 'em. I can't offer you more than two dollars, and shall lose on that."

The young gentleman had been an attentive spectator of this scene. He fathomed the cunning of the Jew, and advancing to the counter, took the chain in his hands.

Come Solomon, this is too bad. You should offer three times as much, and you would make a good bargain then. You know as well as I do that that chain never cost less than ten dollars. Come, come, be honest for once."

"It is all very well," said Solomon, who did not relish the interruption, "for young shendelman to talk, but if young shendelman could keep a pawnbroker's shop he would change his mind."

"Perhaps so, but I will wait till I am a pawnbroker first. But, Solomon, if you don't offer more, I will take it myself."

The Jew, who was afraid of losing a good bargain, and internally cursing the interference of the young gentleman, began to mumble that it was hard to press a poor man so—that he should certainly lose on it. However he closed by offering three dollars.

Mrs. Elliot was about to close with this offer, but the other stepped forward and said, "No, no, this will never do. That chain cost ten dollars at least. I am sure of it, for I bought one precisely similar the other day. Give it to me madam," said he respectfully to Mrs. Elliot, "and I will advance you that sum."

The artist's wife accepted his proffer with grateful astonishment, and hastened to leave the shop. She had gone but a few steps when she was overtaken by the chance companion whom she had met at the pawnbroker's.

"Do not think me bold," said he, "if I suggest that it is not safe to carry money open in your hand, and indeed it is so dark that it is hardly safe at all for a lady to pass through the streets unattended. If you will accept my escort, I shall be most happy to conduct you to your lodgings."

Mrs. Elliot hesitated. She knew it was hardly safe to trust to an entire stranger, but the young stranger's conduct thus far and his whole address had so prepossessed him in her favor, that she thought it hardly prudent to refuse.

"Sir," she replied, after a moment's hesitation, "I do not know whether I am in the right, but I cannot help trusting you."

"You shall not regret your confidence," said her companion. "May I ask where you reside?"

"At 16 S— street," was the reply of Mrs. Elliot. "I am much indebted to you, sir, for less for the trouble you are now taking, than for the generosity with which you saved me from being imposed upon by the Jew."

"Oh," said the other laughing, "Solomon is a cunning old fellow, who will cheat where he gets a chance. No worse Jew for that, or pawnbroker either. It is their business to cheat, and I fancy Gagin is as much of an adept at it as any one."

"I hope," he continued after a pause, "that you were not driven by distress to the sale of an article doubtless of value highly."

"It was presented to me by my husband," was the reply; "I would not have parted with it but that this was the only means probably of saving ourselves from being turned out of doors."

"I am sorry for that," was the sympathetic reply. "Does your husband know that you have come out on such an errand?"

"No, or he would have offered to pawn some of his clothing first. Of this I was afraid, and it is for this reason that I stole secretly out."

"They had now reached the outer door of the dwelling in the upper part of which Mrs. Elliot lodged. It was necessary for them to part."

In parting the stranger pressed Mrs. Elliot's hand, and then walked rapidly away. She found her astonishment that he had placed the chain in her hand. But he was now so far distant that she could not call him back.

"Thanking him in her heart for this unlooked-for generosity, Mrs. Elliot went up stairs with a light heart, for she foresaw that with the sum of money she had so providentially come into possession, they would be able to live comfortably for some weeks, in addition to which she would have it in her power to procure some delicacies for her husband's palate."

After a little consideration she decided not to mention her adventure to her husband, as the idea of her selling his gift would be painful to him, and would do him no good. There was no danger of his inquiring, so much was he absorbed in his painting. Besides, if he thought at all upon the subject, he would think that she had been put on business connected with her work.

She hastily passed up stairs, and set about preparing supper for herself and husband.

CHAPTER III.

The sun was not more punctual to this hour of rising, than was the visit of Mr. Mudge, the landlord to the lodging of the artist.

"Wall," said he abruptly, "have you got the rent ready? I can't wait a day longer."

"Nor will you be obliged," said Mrs. Elliot calmly. "Here is the money."

Mr. Mudge, notwithstanding his love of money looked a little disappointed at this ready payment. His mind was essentially a vulgar one, and he felt an instinctive aversion to Mrs. Elliot, whose superiority to himself he could not help admiring. He had hoped to have the pleasure of turning them out.

"Well, they won't always have the money ready," was his internal reflection, "and the first good excuse I have, they shall go, bag and baggage."

Meanwhile Mr. Elliot was making progress on his painting.

"You deserve the prize, Arthur," said his wife, after gazing admiringly upon her husband's work. "You deserve it, and I hope that you will be successful in getting it."

"It has cost me many hours of hard labor," said the artist wearily, as he laid aside his palette moment, and passed his hand across his brow; "I never felt so great an interest in a picture before. And now two days' labor, I think, will complete it. It needs but a few touches."

As he spoke, Mary saw an unnatural flush upon his cheek, and that his eye glowed with unusual brilliancy. She was alarmed.

"Do, Arthur, for my sake, lie down and rest awhile. You do not look well, and sleep will refresh you. You say two days will finish it, and you have a week before you."

"I believe I will lie down for a few minutes," said Arthur, "for my head aches strangely, and I feel weary."

He laid down, but it did not refresh him. In a little while he grew feverish, so that he could not leave his bed. His wife went out to summon a physician. All her hopes centered in Arthur, and the thought that he was sick—that he was in danger, quickened her step. She saw nothing that was going on around her, so intent was she on her object, when some one touched her familiarly on the shoulder. She looked around and saw by her side the companion whom she had encountered at the pawnbroker's.

"I am happy to meet you once more," said he, "but you seem in haste."

"Yes," said she hurriedly, "my husband has been suddenly taken sick, and I am in pursuit of a physician."

"Let me relieve you of that duty. If you will return to your husband, who doubtless needs your presence, I will summon a physician. I know your lodgings, and will return with medical assistance immediately."

Mrs. Elliot gratefully assented to this proffer of service, for she had felt much solicitude. When she returned, she found her husband seized with a fit of delirium, in which he uttered incoherent sentences, all of which had some connection with his picture and the approaching exhibition.

In a few minutes the stranger came with a physician. To the anxious enquiries of Mrs. Elliot, the doctor replied:

"Your husband is suffering from the excitement and fatigue consequent upon too severe mental exertion. This has thrown him into a fever, from which it will take time to recover."

After leaving directions, he withdrew, promising to repeat his visit the next day.

"How much my poor husband will be disappointed," Mrs. Elliot could not help exclaiming; "he must now abandon the hope of presenting his picture at the exhibition."

"What!" said her visitor with interest, "is your husband an artist?"

In reply, Mrs. Elliot led him to a corner of the room, and withdrew the screen that concealed the painting.

He gazed upon it with deep admiration for some moments, and then said with enthusiasm, "Ah! this is indeed beautiful!"

"It is all but completed," said the artist's wife, "but that will be of no service to us now, and she let the screen fall, and sighed heavily."

A sudden idea struck the visitor.

"Will you trust the painting to me for a few days?" he asked. "You shall not regret it."

Mrs. Elliot, convinced that her husband would not recover to finish it, assented without difficulty. She never thought of distrusting one who had been of such essential service.

"Thank you," said the visitor. "As you have repaid this confidence in me, I must acquaint you with my name and address, that you may know who you have trusted."

He handed her a card inscribed with the name "F. Sedley, 7 Convent place."

"I will send for it this afternoon," said he, as he withdrew, "and will call in upon you to-day or to-morrow. I shall be anxious to learn how your husband is getting along."

REASONABLE ADVICE BY AN IRISH EDITOR.—The editor of the Irish American, published in New York, is a Romanist of talent, and much more fairness than any of his sectarian contemporaries. In his paper for the past week he publishes an address to his fellow citizens of Irish birth, in which (one American principle are inculcated. He tells them to think in politics as Americans and not as Irishmen, to avoid quarrels at the polls, and let whiskey alone. The following extract contains excellent advice, and is the echo of what we have oftentimes addressed to our adopted citizens:

"Why, you have no more right to vote as a Catholic or Irishman in the choice of American law-makers, whether federal, state, municipal or judicial, than you have to pander your neighbor's property. American interests should guide you. The honor and glory, and prosperity of the federal republic, the interests of the state, the purity and health of the social relations with which you are associated and identified, should alone guide you in the exercise of your franchise. The constitution knows no state religion, acknowledges no sectarian interference in governmental affairs, cuts off clearly and totally all and every connection between the ruling power and any and every church, and leaves conscience untrammelled in the exercise of political right. By and through the constitution the voting privilege is extended to you; and by perverting that privilege to any personal or religious purpose, you not only violate your oath of citizenship, but you give a valid excuse to your persecutors to advocate the re-enactment of the alien and sedition laws, and thus deprive you of the privilege, advantage and honor of forming a component part of the great American Union. And let me add that those who appeal to aid and traffic in your religious sympathies and convictions, and who consensually refer in their writings and speeches to your position and influence as 'Catholics,' and solicit you to take your 'Catholic' interest into account in exercising your right to approach the ballot-box, are your bitterest and most malignant enemies, and before God they have as serious responsibility in thus misleading you, which they in the latter end will find it difficult to satisfy and discharge."

WISCONSIN.—The tone of the political feeling in western Wisconsin, as far as we can judge, is of the most encouraging kind to our friends. There is no legitimate Nebraska slave-feeling there, but what there is has been manufactured to order for the administration, which is strangely determined, that the people shall swallow the nauseous stuff, if it is possible to make them. Eastman, in the second district, was sacrificed, because he would not take the villainous compound, and Dr. Hoyt was nominated in his stead, because he would, though the liquor of the democratic members of the New Hampshire legislature, which they sweetened with guano, must have been palatable in comparison. The election takes place on the 7th of November, when it will be seen who are in favor of breaking faith and of allowing slavery to extend itself over a vast extent of country which has been declared sacred to freedom, and who are not.

The truth is, a few men in the United States, of whom Douglass is chief, have got the notion into their heads, that they own the people of this country, in nearly the same sense that the Emperor of all the Russias owns the Russians, and that if he said few men "how the present things of the land" to any scurrilous act, the said people whom they own must do likewise. Another fact is, the people will do no such a thing, though here and there one may be found who will do so. And this will be found to be the case in Wisconsin, as well as in Illinois.—Galena Gazette.

17th SENATORIAL DISTRICT CONVENTION.

At the same time and place above designated in the respective towns and wards for meetings, to choose delegates to the county convention, the Republican electors of the wards of the city of Janesville, and of the towns in this county comprised in the 17th senatorial district, are requested to select an equal number of delegates to which they are entitled under the above appointment in the county convention, to represent them in a senatorial convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY the 12th day of October next at 11 o'clock, A. M., to nominate a candidate for senator.

By order of the County Committee.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATION IN THE THIRD DISTRICT.—Charles Billingshurst, Esq., of Dodge county, editor of the Juneau Burr Oak, was nominated for congress, by the republican convention for the third district, which met at Wau-pun last Wednesday. Mr. B. was a member of the "late" democratic party, and in 1852, was one of the presidential electors chosen by that party in this state; but he was among the first to protest against the Nebraska inquiry, on its announcement in congress, and did not falter in his opposition to it when some of the democratic organs authoritatively pronounced it a party test. He was pretty severely denounced at the time, by some of his contemporaries in this state, but his sense of the injustice and wrong of that act far outweighed their threats and menaces, and like his predecessors already upon the republican congressional ticket in this state, he stands fairly, squarely, and firmly upon the republican platform. He is a man of good ability, of unquestioned integrity and is firm and unwavering in principle.

The republican ticket for congress is now complete, and the Milwaukee Sentinel well observes that, "even the most prejudiced opponent must concede that it is a good one. It is significant, too, of the character and strength of the republican movement in this state, and a good omen of its success, that a free soldier is our candidate in this district, a whig in the second, and a democrat in the third. We hope to chronicle and rejoice over the success of all three."

We place this ticket at the head of our columns with pleasure, and cannot but believe that the fitness of the selection, the extraordinary unanimity in their choice, and the general confidence in and good feeling towards them by the people are true auguries of their triumphant success.

BIENNIAL SESSIONS OF THE LEGISLATURE.—The Janesville Gazette throws itself in favor of the amendments to our state constitution. That makes two papers on that side of the question. "Room for the mormons!"—Appleton Crescent.

The "biennial session" system has been tried in several states, and found to work badly. The consequence has uniformly been that extra sessions of the legislature have to be called. This is particularly true of new states, where the population is constantly changing, new counties being erected, and local legislation being required for them. It would seem to be the part of wisdom for the people of this state to avail themselves of the experience of Ohio and other western states, where the system has been adopted, and the people are heartily sick of it.—Mt. News.

We admit that the practice in several western states under the biennial system has been bad, because the object in view has been thwarted by pilant governors who were ready to lend a willing ear to railroad schemers and the horde of hangers on who profit in various ways by a legislative session. Yet that constitutes no more a legitimate objection to an attempt at reform than a liability to abuse in any other matter.—

With annual sessions we are certain of a yearly infliction of all the evils of a mass of undigested, unnecessary, and we are fortunate if we escape corrupt legislation. With biennial sessions, there is a chance that we may be spared a little; but if we gain nothing we certainly lose nothing. No one pretends that three-quarters of the laws passed since the first session of our state legislature are of the least earthly necessity, or many of them of the least possible utility, while a very large share are positively injurious. The expense of a legislative session, moreover, is no inconsiderable item, and if half the taxes from that source can be saved, it is well worth trying for.

The argument against the proposed amendments to the constitution is founded upon the assumed dishonesty of the governor in calling a special session, or the cupidity of the legislature in adjourning from one year to another, instead of doing up their business as the constitution, should it be changed, would require, and adjourning sine die as the people would dictate.

There is no sense or reason in the arguments of the abolitionists or sham republicans. They are continually harping upon the Nebraska-Kansas bill, and charging that its effect will be to extend the area of slave territory and increase the slave power; and in the same breath these very same writers assert that these territories are now being populated entirely by freemen from the northern states—that there are already in Nebraska and Kansas over ten thousand of these men from the north—and that there is no possibility of either of these territories ever becoming slave states! Now, we would be glad to be informed how the organizing of these territories can increase the slave territory and power, when the climate, soil, and population are all antagonistic to slavery, and there is no earthly prospect of slavery existing there? If this is not duplicity and dishonesty of the bald-kind we do not understand the meaning of those words. And now is it possible that any democrat can be deceived by such a rope of sand? It appears to us impossible.—Sheboygan Journal.

We like to give occasional specimens of the argument as well as the decency of the Nebraska papers. We gave a day or two since a specimen of the latter from this same paper, and here present a choice bit of the former. What thanks to Douglas & Co., supposing northern men, should by superior energy and numbers forestall slavery in those territories? Will that diminish the crime of those who have done all they could to establish slavery there, namely, procured the repeal of an ordinance excluding that hateful institution therefrom? And if northern men should prevent them from accomplishing the diabolical scheme aimed at, is that a good reason why they should be entrusted again with power, or why those who uphold them should be put in a position to co-operate with them? The question directed of sophistry and misstatement like the above, is plain enough. The slave power has year after year been demanding concession from the free states, and has found no difficulty in obtaining it through the hands of the democratic party; the more they have obtained the more turbulent and exacting have they become, until they have succeeded in throwing off all barriers to the introduction of slavery upon formerly free territory. It is natural that such overreaching measures should react. But this by no possible logic or reason extenuates the guilt of those who undertook these measures for an entirely opposite result.

THE FALL TRAVEL.—Travel opens brisk this fall, and people seem disposed to make up for its suspension during the hot weather. Mr. Keeler, stage agent, informs us that over seventy passengers came in last Monday from Afton, and that the number arriving from and departing for that place by stage during the week was about six hundred. The number will be very largely increased upon that route when the boats stop running for the season.

We learn that the democratic convention to nominate a candidate for congress from the first district of this state, held its meeting at Rockford, and nominated by over a two-third vote, William M. Jackson, of McHenry county. Resolutions cordially approving the national administration, and of the principle of the Nebraska bill were adopted. We hope to be able to lay them before our readers in a day or two. The abolitionists will find it a difficult task to elect Washburn with such a competitor.—Chicago Times.

This is the announcement with which Douglas' paper in Chicago hails the split in its party at the Rockford convention, where a large portion of the delegates, representing the largest portion of the voters, withdrew, and nominated a candidate against Mr. Jackson. Mr. Washburn would have beaten the party united; distracted, the only question is as to his majority over Jackson and Perry, and Perry's majority over Jackson.

But this little paragraph of the Times is a standard to judge it in other matters. It is constantly reporting a triumphal progress of Douglas through the state, and representing a general endorsement of him by the people. Now if it will attempt to conceal so serious a trouble and so near home, as the split at Rockford, and predict the election of its candidate where every one knows he stands a better chance of being struck by lightning, what are its representations and predictions worth as to more distant parts of the state?

HON. S. P. CHASE, United States senator from Ohio, will address the people on the Nebraska question as follows:

LOOK OUT FOR CONTEMPORARIES.—Ten dollar notes on the Bank of Rhode, and on the Mercantile Bank, of Bangor, Maine, altered from ones, are in circulation in this vicinity. One of the regues concerned in their manufacture, of the name of Whiting, was arrested on Monday last, and quite a number of ten dollar bills on the old bank of Mineral Point, containing the figures and words necessary to make the alterations, were found in his possession. He was discharged yesterday by order of the district attorney Rofs for reasons which we have not been able to ascertain, and it is said left on the train this morning. It is presumed there are others concerned in the business. The alterations are very neatly executed but can be readily discovered on holding the bill up to the light.

A late writer in speaking of our kront, says "it is the connecting link between damaged cabbage and pickled manure."

MUSICAL CONVENTION AND FESTIVAL.

The "Janesville Musical Society" has engaged Prof. William B. Bradbury, of New York, the distinguished composer and teacher of music, to conduct a musical convention and festival to be held in this city, commencing on Monday, the 23d of October next, at 9 o'clock A. M., continuing three days and evenings, and concluding on Wednesday evening, October 25th, with a public concert.

Its design is the advancement of singers in musical knowledge, by the study and practice of church, concert, and secular music, combined with familiar lectures and criticisms.

The principal text-books used will be "The Shawm," and "The Metropolitan Glee Book."

Members of the convention from abroad will be entertained as guests of the "Janesville Musical Society," and upon their arrival will please present themselves to either of the reception committee, viz: John R. Deale, Sam'l A. Martin, John E. Dubcock.

Terms of admission to the entire course for Gentlemen, $2 00 Ladies, 1 00 Clergymen are cordially invited to attend free of charge. AMOS P. PRICHARD, Sec'y. Janesville, Sept. 23d, 1854.

TRUSDELL, JORDAN & BENNETT, Attorneys at Law.

Having completed an accurate abstract of the TITLE, TAX and JUDGMENT RECORDS of Rock County, are prepared to furnish full and reliable information respecting the ownership of Real Estate in said county, and all liens on such estate by Judgment, Mortgage or otherwise.

They will attend to the purchase and sale of Real Estate, the negotiation of Loans, payment of Taxes, and the redemption of land from Tax Sales, and generally to all such business as properly belongs to a REAL ESTATE OFFICE.

Business in the courts of this and the adjoining counties will be promptly attended to. Office—Second Story of Empire Block. 29 Janesville, Wis., 23d, 1854.

General Election Notice.

STATE OF WISCONSIN, Sheriff's Office, Janesville, July 15, 1854.

NOTICE is hereby given that at the next general election to be held in the State of Wisconsin, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday in November, being the seventh day of said month the following officers are to be elected:

A Representative in Congress for the second Congressional District, comprising the counties of Adams, Bad Ax, Buffalo, Chippewa, Clark, Crawford, Dane, Douglas, Dunn, Grant, Green, Iowa, Jackson, La Crosse, Lincoln, Le Port, Marathon, Monroe, Pierce, Polk, Portage, Richland, Rock, St. Croix, Sauk, and Trempealeau, in the place of Ben C. Eastman, whose term of office will expire on the fourth day of March next.

A State Senator for the seventeenth Senate District, comprising the towns of Aron, Centro, Fulton, Janesville, Magnolia, Newark, Plymouth, Porter, Rock, Spring Valley, and Union, in the county of Jefferson, in the place of Ezra Miller, whose term of office will expire on the first Monday of January next.

Members of assembly for the several Assembly Districts in said county, and the following County Officers, to wit:

Sheriff, Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Clerk of the Circuit Court, District Attorney, County Treasurer, Register of Deeds, County Surveyor and Coroner.

The following proposed amendments to the Constitution of the state are to be submitted to the people at such election, to wit:

Amend Section 4 of Article 4, as to read as follows: The members of assembly shall be chosen biennially, by single districts, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday of November, by the qualified electors of the several districts; such districts to be bounded by contiguous precincts, towns or ward lines, to consist of contiguous territory; and to be in compact a form as practicable.

Amend last clause of Section 5 of same Article, as to read as follows: "The senate districts shall be numbered in regular series. The senators chosen by the present act shall hold their offices until the last day of December 1856. The senators chosen by the present even numbered districts, in the year 1855, shall hold their offices until the last day of December 1858. Thereafter senators shall be chosen for the second of four years, but the legislature at any new apportionment, shall so classify the senators to be elected from any additional senatorial district, which may be formed, that the term of office of all those elected from odd numbered districts shall expire at the same time, and the term of office of all those elected from odd numbered districts shall expire at the same time."

Amend Section 4 of Article 4, as to read as follows: The legislature shall meet at the seat of government once in two years, and not oftener, unless convened by the governor."

Each elector may vote for or against the first of the above named amendments by depositing a ballot containing the following words: "For amendment to section four," or "against amendment to section four," or "for amendment to section

THE UNDERSIGNED having ordered

AGAIN & AGAIN THE BOSTON STORE.

Let the Horn be Blown!!
"Sound the loud trumpet o'er land and o'er sea."
WHEELLOCK'S triumph, and ever shall be.

THIS is the middle of the nineteenth century, the first half of which has produced more change and onward movement than any fifty years of our Christian Era.

The great controlling power of this age is its commerce—indeed, this may be truly called the commercial age.

It has been well said by an ancient writer that "Man wants but little here below," and to supply those wants

WHEELLOCK

Announces to every people and every tongue, to both sexes and all parties and factions of all gauges, that finding his old store entirely

TOO SMALL!
He has been compelled, in order to be able to supply the immense call for goods at his establishment, to Double the capacity of his Store Rooms!

Having purchased this spring, for this market, to be sold this season,

$39,007 00 Worth of Goods

But who can expect to read in the brief space of one life all the articles that the

BOSTON STORE CONTAINS.

Indeed, history must fail to give the researcher of knowledge any correct idea of this immense

STOCK OF SUMMER GOODS,
His inimitable selection of Fancy Dress Goods!

He has over

10,000 Yards of Silk Barges, of every style and price, and it is with no great difficulty that the fair damsels of this fair valley can select

FROM THE ONE THOUSAND SIX
OF all patterns and ranging in price from SIX CENTS Per Yard to Twenty-Eight Cents, such dresses as will add to their exquisite beauty, though it may be a general thing, be as difficult to add to that beauty as it is to add refined gold, paint the lily, or add perfume to the violet.

It must not be inferred that we offer only those and the many other articles for outer apparel, such as Chamois and Foulard Silks, but all manner of

are on hand, so that every one may be entirely accommodated with every article of female apparel—

Even French red foxed Gaiters,
No one would be so

Ladies' Enameled Boots, Enameled sewed Congress Boots,

LADIES' MORNING DOLMANS,
And all the articles manufactured of the best styles.

So that of this store, so far as articles which adorn the female sex are concerned, it may be truly said—

"CUSTODIUM cannot state the infinitely variety."

While the Boston Store has made provision to protect the feet, it can also boast that it has all sorts of

by which hands can be protected and retain

"The white wonder of fair dainty hands."

And in taking leave of those of whom it is no exaggeration to say they are

"Destiny's last, but not the least, gift to man," the Nonpareils of the fashion, the Paragons of perfection, Mr. Wheellock assures his fair customers that his assistants and auxiliaries are those who unite great knowledge of the business, personal presence and affability of manner to determination to discharge conscientiously their several and respective duties—that while they may have the proper desire to effect sales, they will not in the least forget the duty of contemporaries attempt to accomplish that object by equivocation, misrepresentation, exaggeration, tergiversation, fabrication, or by direct lying.

And now to the wants of the

COARSE HAND SEX.

Mr. Wheellock has every kind of material to make those articles of dress that give to man his individuality—

PANTALOONS,
CALF "DEWTS," COW HIDE DO., GAZELLE, do.,

PATENT LEATHER DO., GILLETTE DO.,

That fit every head from the Websterian brow to the country politician's, from the size of cap of him who is closely shaven after the Hibernian fashion to that of him who wears the well-pomaded, ambrosialized, elongated Hyperion curls.

And to the speculator who buys to sell again,

The Boston Store

Can, at lower rates of usance than any other establishment west of the Allegheny mountains, furnish that class of exchanges so desirable, which will fill their pockets as water fills the sea. And to them we offer

DOMESTIC GLASSWARE, WOODEN,
Pocket Handkerchiefs, Inkstands, Cotton Yarn,

Ready-made Vests, Ground Pepper, Blauds,
Looking Glasses, Ready-Made Over Coats, Pants,

Raisins, Flat Irons and Oatmeal Baking, Lanterns,
Satchels, which the winter school-boy with shining morning face bears on his back, and the

Chests, Norwegian Bandboxes and Hair Trunks,
Tea, Tobacco and Wicking.

In the

CROCKERY

Line may be found the

BENNINGTON, the PARIAN and the LAYA Manufacture, Pitchers for milk or water, Tea Pots, Spoons, Bowls for washing, for bread and milk, or sugar, Candies, children's Toys and Flower Pots, MAINE

LIQUOR LAW VOLUMES and Lager Beer Mugs.

And in fine, the proprietor of this establishment can with all confidence assure those who have been in the habit of trading at Janesville that, although they have

"Often seen corruption told and bubble till
It is rotten the store."

they will find that the representations which shall be made to them by that proprietor or his clerks will not

"Stand like forfeits in a Barber shop,
More in mock than mark."

A. W. WHEELLOCK.

From the Boston Olive Branch. THE ARTISTS' TRIUMPH. A TALE OF LONDON. BY HORATIO ALGER, JR. [Continued.] Solomon Gagin, a Jew, who fully sustained the reputation of his race, as an avaricious man wholly devoted to the love of gain, stood with a cringing expression on his drawn up features behind the counter of his shop in David's alley. He was trafficking, or rather seemed to have just closed a sale with a young gentleman, well dressed, and of prepossessing manners. The latter, made way politely for Mary, who was too much pre-occupied to acknowledge his courtesy. "How much will you advance me on this?" asked she hurriedly, extending the chain which had originally been purchased for ten dollars. Solomon looked in her face cunningly, as if to estimate by the degree of anxiety she displayed, how little he might venture to offer. Mary was very nervous, and exceedingly anxious to reach home before it grew much darker. This probably gave her an appearance of solicitude, which the Jew attributed to destitution. "These things I sell very cheap," he at length replied, "dog cheap; people don't want 'em. I can't offer you more than two dollars, and shall lose on that." The young gentleman had been an attentive spectator of this scene. He fathomed the cunning of the Jew, and advancing to the counter, took the chain in his hands. "Come Solomon, this is too bad. You should offer three times as much, and you would make a good bargain then. You know as well as I do that that chain never cost less than ten dollars. Come, come, be honest for once." "It is all very well," said Solomon, who did not relish the interruption, "for young shentleman to talk, but if young shentleman should keep a pawnbroker's shop he would change his mind." "Perhaps so, but I will wait till I am a pawnbroker first. But, Solomon, if you don't offer more, I will take it myself." The Jew, who was afraid of losing a good bargain, and internally cursing the interference of the young gentleman, began to mumble that it was hard to press a poor man so—that he should certainly lose on it. However he closed by offering three dollars. Mrs. Elliot was about to close with this offer, but the other stepped forward and said, "No, no, this will never do. That chain cost ten dollars at least. I am sure of it, for I bought one precisely similar the other day. Give it to me now, and I will advance you five dollars. Give it to me now, and I will advance you five dollars." The artist's wife accepted his proffer with grateful astonishment, and hastened to leave the shop. She had gone but a few steps when she was overtaken by the chance companion whom she had met at the pawnbroker's. "Do not think me bold," said he, "if I suggest that it is not safe to carry money open in your hand, and indeed it is so dark that it is hardly safe at all for a lady to pass through the streets unattended. If you will accept my escort, I shall be most happy to conduct you to your lodgings." Mrs. Elliot hesitated. She knew it was hardly safe to trust to an entire stranger, but the young stranger's conduct thus far and his whole address had so prepossessed him in her favor, that she thought it hardly prudent to refuse. "Sir," she replied, after a moment's hesitation, "I do not know whether I am in the right, but I cannot help trusting you." "You shall not regret your confidence," said her companion. "May I ask where you reside?" "At 16 S— street," was the reply of Mrs. Elliot. "I am much indebted to you, sir, no less for the trouble you are now taking, than for the generosity with which you saved me from being imposed upon by the Jew." "Oh," said the other laughing, "Solomon is a cunning old fellow, who will cheat where he gets a chance. No worse Jew for that, or pawnbroker either. It is his business to cheat, and I fancy Gagin is as much of an adept at it as any one." "I hope," he continued after a pause, "that you were not driven by distress to the sale of an article doubtless you value highly." "It was presented to me by my husband," was the reply; "I would not have parted with it but that this was the only means probably of saving ourselves from being turned out of doors." "I am sorry for that," was the sympathizing reply. "Does your husband know that you have come out on such an errand?" "No," or he would have offered to pawn some of his clothing first. Of this I was afraid, and it is for this reason that I stole secretly out." They had now reached the outer door of the dwelling in the upper part of which Mr. Elliot lodged. It was necessary for them to part. In parting the stranger pressed Mrs. Elliot's hand, and then walked rapidly away. She found to her astonishment that he had placed the chain in her hand. But he was now so far distant that she could not call him back. Thanking him in her heart for this unlooked-for generosity, Mrs. Elliot went up stairs with a light heart, for she foresaw that with the sum of money she had so providentially come into possession, they would be able to live comfortably for some weeks, in addition to which she would have it in her power to procure some delicacies for her husband's palate. After a little consideration she decided not to mention her adventure to her husband, as the idea of her selling his gift would be painful to him, and would do him no good. There was no danger of his inquiring, so much was he absorbed in his painting. Besides, if he thought at all upon the subject, he would think that she had been put on business connected with her work. She hastily passed up stairs, and set about preparing supper for herself and husband. CHAPTER III. The sun was not more punctual to this hour of rising, than was the visit of Mr. Mudge, the landlord to the lodging of the artist. "Wall," said he abruptly, "have you got the rent ready? I can't wait a day longer." "Nor will you be obliged," said Mrs. Elliot calmly. "Here is the money." Mr. Mudge, notwithstanding his love of money looked a little disappointed at this ready payment. His mind was essentially a vulgar one, and he felt an instinctive aversion to Mrs. Elliot, whose superiority to himself he could not help admitting. He had hoped to have the pleasure of turning them out. "Well, they won't always have the money ready," was his internal reflection, "and the first good excuse I have, they shall go, bag and baggage." Meanwhile Mr. Elliot was making progress on his painting. "You deserve the prize, Arthur," said his wife, after gazing admiringly upon her husband's work "you deserve it, and I hope that you will be successful in getting it." "It has cost me many hours of hard labor," said the artist wearily, as he laid aside his palette moment, and passed his hand across his brow; "I never felt so great an interest in a picture before. And now two days' labor, I think, will complete it. It needs but a few touches." As he spoke, Mary saw an unnatural flush upon his cheek, and that his eye glowed with unusual brilliancy. She was alarmed. "Do, Arthur, for my sake, lie down and rest awhile! You do not look well, and sleep will refresh you. You say two days will finish it, and you have a week before you." "I believe I will lie down for a few minutes," said Arthur, "for my head aches strangely, and I feel weary." He laid down, but it did not refresh him. In a little while he grew feverish, so that he could not leave his bed. His wife went out to summon a physician. All her hopes centered in Arthur, and the thought that he was sick—that he was in danger, quickened her step. She saw nothing that was going on around her, so intent was she on her object, when some one touched her familiarly on the shoulder. She looked around and saw by her side the companion whom she had encountered at the pawnbroker's. "I am happy to meet you once more," said he "but you seem in haste." "Yes," said she hurriedly, "my husband has been suddenly taken sick, and I am in pursuit of a physician." "Let me relieve you of that duty. If you will return to your husband, who doubtless needs your presence, I will summon a physician. I know your lodgings, and will return with medical assistance immediately." Mrs. Elliot gratefully assented to this proffer of service, for she had felt much solicitude. When she returned, she found her husband seized with a fit of delirium, in which he uttered incoherent sentences, all of which had some connection with his picture and the approaching exhibition. "In a few minutes the stranger came with a physician. To the anxious enquiries of Mrs. Elliot, the doctor replied: "Your husband is suffering from the excitement and fatigue consequent upon too severe mental exertion. This has thrown him into a fever, from which it will take time to recover." After leaving directions, he withdrew, promising to repeat his visit the next day. "How much my poor husband will be disappointed," Mrs. Elliot could not help exclaiming; "he must now abandon the hope of presenting his picture at the exhibition." "What!" said her visitor with interest, "is your husband an artist?" In reply, Mrs. Elliot led him to a corner of the room, and withdrew the screen that concealed the painting. He gazed upon it with deep admiration for some moments, and then said with enthusiasm, "Ah! this is indeed beautiful." "It is all but completed," said the artist's wife, "but that will be of no service to us now," and she led the screen fall, and sighed heavily. A sudden idea struck the visitor. "Will you trust the painting to me for a few days?" he asked. "You shall not regret it." Mrs. Elliot, convinced that her husband would not recover to finish it, assented without difficulty. She never thought of distusting one who had been of such essential service. "Thank you," said the visitor. "As you have reposed this confidence in me, I must acquaint you with my name and address, that you may know who you have trusted." He handed her a card inscribed with the name "F. Seelye, 7 Convent place." "I will send for it this afternoon," said he, as he withdrew, "and will call in upon you to-day or to-morrow. I shall be anxious to learn how your husband is getting along." SEASONABLE ADVICE BY AN IRISH EDITOR.—The editor of the Irish American, published in New York, is a Romanist of talent, and much more fairness than any of his sectarian contemporaries. In his paper for the past week he publishes an address to his fellow citizens of Irish birth, in which true American principles are inculcated. He tells them to think in politics as Americans and not as Irishmen, to avoid quarrels at the polls, and let whiskey alone. The following extract contains excellent advice, and is the re-echo of what we have often times addressed to our adopted citizens: "Why, you have no more right to vote as a Catholic or Irishman in the choice of American law-makers, whether federal, state, municipal or judicial, than you have to plunder your neighbor's property. American interests should guide you. The honor, and glory, and prosperity of the federal republic, the interests of the state, the purity and health of the social relations with which you are associated and identified, should alone guide you in the exercise of your franchise. The constitution knows no state religion, acknowledges no sectarian interference in governmental affairs, cuts off clearly and totally all and every connection between the ruling power and any and every church, and leaves conscience untrampled in the exercise of political right—By and through the constitution the voting privilege is extended to you; and by perverting that privilege to any personal or religious purpose, you not only violate your oath of citizenship, but you give a valid excuse to your persecutors to advocate the re-enactment of the alien and sedition laws, and thus deprive you of the privilege, advantage and honor of forming a component part of the great American Union. And let me add that those who appeal to and traffic in your religious sympathies and convictions, and who constantly refer in their writings and speeches to your position and influence as 'Catholics,' and solicit you to take your 'Catholic' interest into account in exercising your right to approach the ballot-box, are your bitterest and most malignant enemies, and before God they have a serious responsibility in thus misleading you, which they in the latter end will find it difficult to satisfy and discharge." Wisconsin.—The tone of the political feeling in western Wisconsin, as far as we can judge, is of the most encouraging kind to our friends.—There is no legitimate Nebraska slave-feeling there, but what there is has been manufactured to order for the administration, which is strangely determined, that the people shall swallow the nauseous stuff, if it be possible to make them.—Eastman, in the second district, was sacrificed, because he would not take the villainous compound, and Dr. Hoyt was nominated in his stead because he would, though the liquor of the democratic members of the New Hampshire legislature have been palatable in comparison. The election takes place on the 7th of November, when it will be seen who are in favor of breaking faith and of allowing slavery to extend itself over a vast extent of country which has been declared sacred to freedom, and who are not. The truth is, a few men in the United States, of which Douglass is chief, have got the notion into their heads, that they own the people of this country, in nearly the same sense that the Emperor of all the Russias owns all the Russias, and that if the said few men 'bow the pregnant hinges of the knee' to any scurrilous act, the said people whom they own must do likewise. Another fact is the people will do no such a thing, though here and there one may be found who will do so. And this will be found to be the case in Wisconsin, as well as in Illinois.—Galena Gazette. THE DAILY GAZETTE. JANEVILLE: : : WISCONSIN. MONDAY MORNING, SEPT. 26, 1854. FOR CONGRESS—FIRST DISTRICT, WYMAN SPOONER, SECOND DISTRICT, C. C. WASHBURN. THIRD DISTRICT, CHARLES BILLINGHURST. ROCK COUNTY REPUBLICAN CONVENTION. The electors of Rock county who are determined to support no man for office who is not positively and fully committed to the support of the principles announced in the "Republican Platform" adopted at Madison on the 13th of July last, and whose personal character, political associations and private conduct, do not afford a guarantee that he is reliable, are invited to meet in their respective townships or wards at the place of holding the last township ward election, on Tuesday, 10th day of October next, at 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of effecting a thorough organization of the Republican party in their towns or wards, and of appointing delegates to a county convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY, the 12th day of October next, at 2 o'clock P. M., to nominate a county ticket. The towns and wards will be entitled to representation in the county convention as follows:—to-wit: Avon, 10; Janesville 1st ward, 4; Beloit, 10; " 2d ward, 4; Bradford, 4; " 3d ward, 2; Center, 4; " 4th ward, 2; Clinton, 5; Milton, 5; Fulton, 4; Magnolia, 3; Harmony, 4; Newark, 3; Lima, 4; Plymouth, 3; Johnstown, 3; Porter, 3; La Prairie, 3; Rock, 4; Janesville, town, 3; Spring Valley, 4; Turley, 4; Union, 5. L. P. HANVY, J. H. BOND, JOHN HOWE, S. G. COLLEY, G. H. WILLISTON, A. HENKINS, PETER SCHWITZ, J. DAWSON, E. VANDERBILT, County Committee. 17TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT CONVENTION. At the same time and place above designated in the respective towns and wards for meetings, to choose delegates to the county convention, the Republican electors of the wards of the city of Janesville, and of the towns in this county comprised in the 17th senatorial district, are requested to select an equal number of delegates to which they are entitled under the above appointment in the county convention, to represent them in a senatorial convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY the 12th day of October next at 11 o'clock, A. M., to nominate a candidate for senator. By order of the County Committee. REPUBLICAN NOMINATION IN THE THIRD DISTRICT.—Charles Billingham, Esq., of Dodge county, editor of the Janesville Burr Oak, was nominated for congress, by the republican convention for the third district, which met at Wau-pun last Wednesday. Mr. B. was a member of the "late" democratic party, and in 1852, was one of the presidential electors chosen by that party in this state; but he was among the first to protest against the Nebraska infamy, on its announcement in congress, and did not falter in his opposition to it when some of the democratic organs authoritatively pronounced it a party test. He was pretty severely denounced at the time, by some of his contemporaries in this state, but his sense of the injustice and wrong of that act far outweighed their threats and menaces, and like his predecessors already upon the republican congressional ticket in this state, he stands fairly, squarely, and firmly upon the republican platform. He is a man of good ability, of unquestioned integrity and is firm and unwavering in principle. The republican ticket for congress is now complete, and the Milwaukee Sentinel well observes that, "even the most prejudiced opponent must concede that it is a good one. It is significant, too, of the character and strength of the republican movement in this state, and a good omen of its success, that a free soiler is our candidate in this district, a whig in the second, and a democrat in the third. We hope to chronicle and rejoice over the success of all three." We place this ticket at the head of our columns with pleasure, and cannot but believe that the fitness of the selection, the extraordinary unanimity in their choice, and the general confidence in and good feeling towards them by the people are true auguries of their triumphant success. BIENNIAL SESSIONS OF THE LEGISLATURE.—The Janesville Gazette avows itself in favor of the amendments to our state constitution. That makes two papers on that side of the question. "Room for the mourners!"—Appleton Crescent. The "biennial session" system has been tried in several states, and found to work badly. The consequence has uniformly been that extra sessions of the legislature have to be called. This is particularly true of new states, where the population is constantly changing, new counties being erected, and local legislation being required for them. It would seem to be the part of wisdom for the people of this state to avail themselves of the experience of Ohio and other western states, where the system has been adopted, and the people are heartily sick of it.—Mil. Times. We admit that the practice in several western states under the biennial system has been bad, because the object in view has been thwarted by pliant governors who were ready to lend a willing ear to railroad schemers and the horde of hangers on who profit in various ways by a legislative session. Yet that constitutes no more a legitimate objection to an attempt at reform than a liability to abuse in any other matter.—With annual sessions we are certain of a yearly infliction of all the evils of a mass of undigested, unnecessary, and we are fortunate if we escape corrupt legislation. With biennial sessions, there is a chance that we may be spared a little; but if we gain nothing we certainly lose nothing. No one pretends that three-quarters of the laws passed since the first session of our state legislature are of the least earthly necessity, or many of them of the least possible utility, while a very large share are positively injurious. The expense of a legislative session, moreover, is no inconsiderable item, and if half the taxes from that source can be saved, it is well worth trying for. The argument against the proposed amendments to the constitution is founded upon the assumed dishonesty of the governor in calling a special session, or the cupidity of the legislature in adjourning from one year to another, instead of doing up their business as the constitution, should it be changed, would require, and adjourning sine die as the people would dictate. There is no sense or reason in the arguments of the abolitionists or sham republicans. They are continually harping upon the Nebraska-Kansas bill, and charging that its effect will be to extend the area of slave territory and increase the slave power; and in the same breath these very same writers assert that these territories are now being populated entirely by freemen from the northern states—that there are already in Nebraska and Kansas over ten thousand of these men from the north—and that there is no possibility of either of these territories ever becoming slave states! Now, we would be glad to be informed how the organizing of these territories can increase the slave territory and power, when the climate, soil, and population are all antagonistic to slavery, and there is no earthly prospect of slavery existing there? If this is not duplicity and dishonesty of the boldest kind we do not understand the meaning of those words. And now it is possible that any democrat can be deceived by such a rope of sand? It appears to us impossible.—Sheboygan Journal. We like to give occasional specimens of the argument as well as the decency of the Nebraska papers. We gave a day or two since a specimen of the latter from this same paper, and here present a choice bit of the former. What thanks to Douglas & Co., supposing northern men, should by superior energy and numbers forestall slavery in these territories? Will that diminish the crime of those who have done all they could to establish slavery there, namely, procured the repeal of an ordinance excluding that hateful institution therefrom? And if northern men should prevent them from accomplishing the diabolical scheme aimed at, is that a good reason why they should be entrusted again with power, or why those who uphold them should be put in a position to co-operate with them? The question divested of sophistry and misstatement like the above, is plain enough. The slave power has year after year been demanding concession from the free states, and has found no difficulty in obtaining it through the hands of the democratic party; the more they have obtained the more turbulent and exacting have they become, until they have succeeded in throwing off all barriers to the introduction of slavery upon formerly free territory. It is natural that such overreaching measures should react. But this by no possible logic or reason extenuates the guilt of those who undertook these measures for an entirely opposite result. THE FALL TRAVEL.—Travel opens brisk this fall, and people seem disposed to make up for its suspension during the hot weather. Mr. Keeler, stage agent, informs us that over seventy passengers came in last Monday from Appleton, and that the number arriving from and departing for that place by stage during the week was about six hundred. The number will be very largely increased upon that route when the boats stop running for the season. We learn that the democratic convention to nominate a candidate for congress from the first district of this state, held its meeting at Rockford, and nominated by over a two-third vote, William M. Jackson, of McHenry county. Resolutions cordially approving the national administration, and of the principle of the Nebraska bill were adopted. We hope to be able to lay before our readers in a day or two. The abolitionists will find it a difficult task to elect Washburn with such a competitor.—Chicago Times. This is the announcement with which Douglas' paper in Chicago hails the split in its party at the Rockford convention, where a large portion of the delegates, representing the largest portion of the voters, withdrew, and nominated a candidate against Mr. Jackson. Mr. Washburn would have beaten the party united; distracted, the only question is as to his majority over Jackson and Perry, and Perry's majority over Jackson. But this little paragraph of the Times is a standard to judge it in other matters. It is constantly reporting a triumphal progress of Douglas through the state, and representing a cordial endorsement of him by the people. Now if it will attempt to conceal so serious a trouble and so near home, as the split at Rockford, and predict the election of its candidate where every one knows he stands a better chance of being struck by lightning, what are its representations and predictions worth as to more distant parts of the state? J. S. P. CHASE, United States senator from Ohio, will address the people on the Nebraska question as follows: Thursday, October 12th, at Chicago, in the evening. Friday, " 13th, at Belvidere, Boone co. Saturday, " 14th, at Aurora, Kane co. Monday, " 16th, at Joliet, Will co. Tuesday, " 17th, at Springfield. Wednesday, " 18th, at Springfield. Thursday, " 19th, at Granville, Putnam co. LOOK OUT FOR CONFESSIONS.—Ten dollar notes on the Bank of Racine, and on the Mercantile Bank of Bangor, Maine, altered from ones, are in circulation in this vicinity. One of the rogues concerned in their manufacture, of the name of Whiting, was arrested on Monday last, and quite a number of ten dollar bills on the old bank of Mineral Point, containing the figures and words necessary to make the alterations, were found in his possession. He was discharged yesterday by order of the district attorney Roys for reasons which we have not been able to ascertain, and it is said left on the train this morning. It is presumed there are others concerned in the business. The alteration is very neatly executed but can be readily discovered on holding the bill up to the light. A late writer in speaking of our krait, says "It is the connecting link between damaged cabbage and pickled manure." MUSICAL CONVENTION AND FESTIVAL. The "Janesville Musical Society" has engaged Prof. William B. Bradbury, of New York, the distinguished composer and teacher of music, to conduct a musical convention and festival to be held in this city, commencing on Monday, the 23d of October next, at 9 o'clock A. M., continuing three days and evenings, and concluding on Wednesday evening, October 26th, with a public concert. Its design is the advancement of singers in musical knowledge, by the study and practice of church, concert, and secular music, combined with familiar lectures and criticisms. The principal text-books used will be "The Shawm," and "The Metropolitan Glee Book." Members of the convention from abroad will be entertained as guests of the "Janesville Musical Society," and upon their arrival will please present themselves to either of the reception committee, viz: John R. Deale, Sam'l A. Martin, John E. Babcock. Terms of admission to the entire course for Gentlemen, $2 00 Ladies, 1 00 Clergymen are cordially invited to attend free of charge. AMOS P. PRICHARD, Sec'y. Janesville, Sept. 8th, 1854. 2nd TRUSDELL, JORDAN & BENNETT, Attorneys at Law. Having completed an accurate abstract of the TITLE, TAX and JUDGMENT RECORDS of Rock County, are prepared to furnish full and reliable information respecting the ownership of Real Estate in said county, and all liens on such estate by Judgment, Mortgage or otherwise. They will attend to the purchase and sale of Real Estate, the negotiation of Loans, payment of Taxes, and the redemption of land from Tax Sales, and generally to all such business as properly belongs to a REAL ESTATE OFFICE. Business in the courts of this and the adjoining counties will be promptly attended to. Office—Second Story of Empire Block. 39 Janesville, Wis., May 25th, 1854. THE MARKETS. Janesville, July 18, 1854. NOTICE is hereby given that at the next general election to be held in the State of Wisconsin, on the 7th day of November next, the following officers are to be elected: A Representative in Congress for the second Congressional District, comprising the counties of Adams, Bad Axe, Buffalo, Chippewa, Clark, Crawford, Dane, Dodge, Dunn, Green, Iowa, Jackson, Lincoln, La Crosse, La Fayette, La Point, Marathon, Monroe, Pierce, Polk, Portage, Richland, Rock, St. Croix, Sauk, and Trempealeau, in the place of Ben C. Eastman, whose term of office will expire on the fourth day of March next. A State Senator for the seventh Senate District, comprising the towns of Avon, Centre, Fulton, Janesville, Magnolia, Newark, Plymouth, Porter, Rock, Spring Valley, and Union, in the county of Rock, in the place of Ezra Miller, whose term of office will expire on the fourth day of March next. Members of assembly for the several Assembly Districts in said county, and the following County Officers, to-wit: Sheriff, Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Clerk of the Circuit Court, District Attorney, County Treasurer, Assessor, and Coroner. The following proposed amendments to the Constitution of the state are to be submitted to the people at such election, to-wit: Amend Section 4 of Article 4, as to read as follows: "The members of assembly shall be chosen biennially, by single districts, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday of November, by the qualified electors of the several districts; such districts to be bounded by county, precinct, town or ward lines, to consist of contiguous territory, and to be in no compact form as practicable." Amend last clause of Section 5 of same Article, as to read as follows: "The senate districts shall be numbered in regular series. The senators chosen by the present odd numbered districts, in the year 1854, shall hold their offices until the last day of December 1855. The senators chosen by the even numbered districts, in the year 1855, shall hold their offices until the last day of December 1856. Thereafter senators shall be chosen for the term of four years, but the legislature at any new apportionment, shall so classify the senators as to have one-third of the above amendments by depositing a ballot containing the words "for amendment to section five," or "against amendment to section five," or "for amendment to section four," or "against amendment to section four," or "for amendment to section eleven," or "against amendment to section eleven," or "for amendment to section eleven," or "against amendment to section eleven." The votes given by any elector for or against any or all of said amendments shall be on one ballot, and to be deposited in a separate box prepared for the purpose. The qualification of electors to be the same, and the votes canvassed and returned in the same manner as in election for state officers." Each elector may vote for or against the first of the above named amendments by depositing a ballot containing the following words: "For amendment to section four," or "against amendment to section four;" and for or against the second of the above amendments by depositing a ballot containing the words, "for amendment to section five," or "against amendment to section five;" and for or against the third of the above amendments by depositing a ballot containing the words, "for amendment to section eleven," or "against amendment to section eleven." The votes given by any elector for or against any or all of said amendments shall be on one ballot, and to be deposited in a separate box prepared for the purpose. The qualification of electors to be the same, and the votes canvassed and returned in the same manner as in election for state officers. W. H. HOWARD, Phila. 29th Rock Co., Wis. A pleasant place for all who feel an interest in music, to call and see and hear what is being done in the musical world. Our instruments are free for any one to try. We shall be happy to show our instruments, Music or Books, to all who may favor us with a call. JOHN T. PEASE, & Co. West side of the River. Janesville, Sept. 12, 1854. d&w Something New!! MR. CHARLES AUSTIN, the celebrated Reel maker has just completed his new Organ Reel, upon which he has labored for the last five years and expended more than six thousand dollars. This reel is different from all others in its construction, being much larger and having more power. It is intended for Church and Parlor Organs as manufactured by Messrs. Austin & Co. These Organs have an upright (Organ) action and are of the shape of all Church Organs. The price will range from $175 to $250, depending upon the size of the case. To churches in want of an instrument of that value we would say that they have more power than any common Organ costing $500. J. T. Pease & Co., Janesville, Wis., are interested in the manufacture and sale of these instruments, and are the only persons in the west who can be had. They will have one or more for exhibition as early as Sept. 10, and after that a good assortment as soon as they can be manufactured. JOHN T. PEASE & Co., Janesville, Wis. CHAS. AUSTIN, Concord, N. H. a22-242w J. F. PEASE & Co. WILL commence his next term of instruction upon the Piano Forte, and in Vocal Music on Wednesday Sept. 14th.
